

The Scientific Library of the International Higher School of Medicine was founded in 2003. It is one of the important structural units of the IHSM and is designed to support the learning, educational and scientific processes, as well as to provide an access to domestic and global knowledge and information.

In Present time the total number of storage units of the library fund is 21 889 copies, including:

- books — 17 3 442 copies
- newspapers & Journals — 1 075 copies
- electronic editions — 3 478 copies

The library funds are located in 4 educational buildings:

- Central Campus (Bishkek, Intergel'po street 1F, 5th floor);
- Clinical Simulation Center (Bishkek, Lev Tolstoy street 117A, 3rd floor);
- Educational and Morphological Center (Bishkek, Lev Tolstoy street 114/1, 1st floor);
- Issyk-Kul Campus (Cholpon-Ata, Akin Jumaliev street 1 A, 2nd building 1st floor).

The structure of the library includes 4 subscriptions, 3 reading and computer rooms for 259 seats.

The library's computer park consists of 109 computers with Internet access, free Wi-Fi, and office multifunction devices (3x1) for scanning and printing educational materials. Library users can listen to and view audio and video materials, and there is also a projector and screen for lectures, training seminars, presentations, and other informational and mass events.

The library's website (<http://library.ism.edu.kg>) also contains information about the library's basic details, structure, and collections, as well as rules for use and all necessary links to electronic resources available locally and remotely.
